Editor's Piece.

Hi, and welcome to all Newsletter readers.

Well spring is here at last, how great it is to see the new and lovely spring flowers appearing and know we have even more to see in the weeks ahead.

There is another walk at Thorp Hall , this time a "daffodil walk" on Saturday 10th April, if the snow-drop walk was anything to go by, it should be a fantastic sight! Fingers crossed we get a sunny day !

Rudston DUCK RACE on 18th April at 2pm can't wait for that, the "gypsy race" is flowing well and we have lots of "new" ducks racing!!

St Georges's Day lunch at Low Caythorpe home of June and Mike Sellers on 23rd April, come along and enjoy the old world charm of their lovely farmhouse, sittings at 12 noon and 1.30pm , you need to get your tickets soon as possible as there is limited space.

I'm wanting to produce an article on "Homes in Rudston" if anyone has an interesting home, be it new or old , converted or with unusual features etc please get in touch with me and I will endeavour to describe your home for Rudston Newsletter readers.

Have a happy Easter and enjoy the brilliance of spring.

The above does not apply to bereavement notices and messages, which will be included if at all possible.

JOKE TIME !!!!

What government agency is responsible for finding lost vicars?
The Bureau of Missing Parsons.

What is the opposite of woe?
Gee-up!

Last night there was a big fight in our local fish and chip shop - a lot of fish got battered.

I used to dress off the peg, but now my neighbours take in their washing at night.

Old Lady: Do you always play by ear?
Street Musician: Yes, lady, 'ere or 'ereabouts.

Mothers Day Poem

Mother

If I could give you diamonds
for each tear you cried for me.
If I could give you sapphires
for each truth you've helped me see.
If I could give you rubies
for the heartache that you've known
If I could give you pearls for the wisdom that you've shown.
Then you'll have a treasure, mother,
that would mount up to the skies
That would almost match
the sparkle in your kind and loving eyes.

But I have no pearls, no diamonds,
As I'm sure you're well aware
So I'll give you gifts more precious
My devotion, love and care.

Rudston Women's Institute

The Rudston WI meets every first Tuesday of each month at 7pm in the Village Hall, Rudston.

This month's speaker was the Rev. Robert Michael Amos from Barnsley, who entertained us all with his clever wit and humour. Last month we had a gentleman telling us about his life with his "guide dog."

The competition this month was, "bake something made with 5 ingredients." The winner was Shirley Harland with her 'scrummy' coconut macaroons.

This month's lunch outing is at The Bull & Sun
Just some of the trips and events taking place:-
Haworth (Bronte country)
Flamborough plus meal out
Photographic and flower arranger competitions

Anyone wishing to attend is most welcome.

Crosslands Column

Audit time is already upon us and the notice is in place. It gets earlier year by year, until it has now reached the stage where an "internal" audit has to be done before the year - end figures can be produced. That is to take place before the end of March with the assistance of my company's accountant who can at last check that things are correct in the meantime. I shall then have to produce final figures as soon as possible after the month end. This cannot possibly be before Easter Monday, which would you believe, is the date of commencement of the period for the books to be available to view. It will, of course, be as soon as possible afterwards, which will give ample opportunity for anyone who is interested to arrange to see them at Mr Ezard's home. The final date for viewing is given as 5th May which is the same as the date for which the return has to reach the audit office, so will be a couple of days earlier. I did protest about the impracticality of these dates pointing out that there was only one working day (for banks) between 31st March and the 5th April, and I certainly wouldn't have final statements. However, they weren't about to change anything, so I could only promise we would do our best. (don't expect they'll be working over Easter for a start !)

This has also meant having to arrange an extra parish council meeting in April for the formal acceptance of the accounts. It has been agreed for the 14th. So I shall have to get my bit done before then. After that, the next ("annual") meeting has been arranged for the 12th May. That is a week later than usual, but we might get the General Election excitement over with by then, for one thing.

On other matters, I'm afraid a familiar one has reared its head again, dog mess! There are believed to be three animals which are allowed to roam around the village unchecked, and are obviously chief suspects. Would the owners please try to be a little more responsible, as there are complaints that it has got to the stage where dog mess is spoiling what should be a beautiful village to walk around. A "favourite" area for dogs is apparently the footpath to the caravan site - we can't blame visitors when it happens before they even arrive. Official signs will be going up any time now at the children's playground, which was the only "No Dogs" site designated by the parish council, but it could certainly ask East Riding of Yorkshire Council to extend that to other areas if need be. But - must we do that? Must it be like everything else in this day and age, where the thoughtless actions of a few cause, at best inconvenience and sometimes downright misery, for the rest? Maybe there was something in that dog insurance after all.

From the Vicarage,

Not long ago I was thinking I hadn't had a funeral for a while and then, one Monday morning, my phone rang three times and each call told me someone had died. During the week two more came in. I'm no stranger to funerals, in my last parish I took about three a week. I did so many because, unlike Rudston, there was about twelve thousand people living there! Unlike Rudston (and my other parishes here) I didn't know most of the deceased or their families. Of the recent funerals I have taken I have personally known either those who have died or their family. Some have been close to me and supported me during my time here. In these last weeks I have certainly felt deaths sting. Thank God for Easter. In the coming great festival, we remember that death, though bitter, is not the end. God raised Jesus from the dead, turned grief into joy, and he promises that he will do the same for us as we trust in him. Every blessing and new life to you this Easter,

Nature News

Spring has been late coming this year with all the spring bulbs emerging later and lasting longer than usual. Daffodils in particular are about three weeks later than in previous years. However a few of the spring flowers, particularly coltsfoot, have blossomed and buds have broken on many of the smaller shrubs and trees. There have been encouraging signs of life with frogs and toads crossing roads, sadly with many ending up as road casualties, and there is frogspawn in local ponds. A field vole has been discovered already with young in a log pile, hares have suddenly become more visible at the start of their breeding season and both stoats and weasels have been reported dashing across roads. The first honeybees and bumblebees are on the wing and queen wasps are already prospecting for breeding sites. Ladybirds have also made an appearance.

One unusual visitor, the great grey shrike, has been recorded locally but redwings and fieldfares, our overwintering members of the thrush family, have been scarce. Barn owls are to be seen hunting during the daytime, suggesting both a shortage of prey and also that they are already at nest with the sitter being fed by its mate. Rooks have taken up their breeding sites and are rebuilding their nests, blackbirds have been collecting building material and already an empty shell from a mallard has been found after its nest was predated. Both goldcrest and firecrest have been reported lately with the firecrest merely passing through on its way to breeding territory. An unusual sight has been four greater spotted woodpeckers seen together and three buzzards have been seen in the air together. The prolonged winter has meant that several birds, wrens in particular have seen their populations decimated with sightings few and far between.

At the end of February the first butterfly sighting was of a small tortoiseshell which had emerged from hibernation followed remarkably early by a brimstone butterfly on 1st March. This must have been freshly hatched because brimstone does not overwinter as adults. In the same period two overwintering moths, the satellite and chestnut, came out of hibernation and were quickly followed by four newly emerged species of moths.

There has been an award for Thorpe Hall Caravan site from David Bellamy for wildlife given only where there has been consistent conservation effort over a number of years.

Has anybody thought about cashing their GOLD in, just beware of these postal advertisers they're not all reputable, research has shown that they can offer you say £60 on an item then when you say "no that's not enough" they quickly up the price to almost double, needless to say why didn't they give you the revised price at the beginning!

The best place to go or try is a reputable jewellers you can look up the rates for gold before you go. I recently sold quite a few items of gold jewellery, I went to three jewellers and sold it finally to the third jeweller who gave me the best price, I must say I was pretty surprised at how much I sold it all for. I definitely recommend selling your GOLD that way.
